

Hashtag Strategy

HIGHLIGHTS (BI-WEEKLY)

- #musicpr
- #entertainmentpr
- #pressstrategy
- #brandcommunications
- #[InsertRelevantArtistName]

TIPS (WEEKLY)

- #marketingtips
- #socialmediamarketing
- #contentstrategy
- #pradvice
- #prtips

BTS (BI-WEEKLY)

- #behindthescenes
- #Unfiltered
- #creativeprocess
- #agencylife
- #[InsertRelevantArtistName]

CAMPAIGN SPOTLIGHT (BI-WEEKLY)

- #musicmarketing
- #entertainmentmarketing
- #brandactivation
- #campaignstrategy
- #[InsertRelevantArtistName]

EXPERT INSIGHTS SERIES (YET TO COME)

- #marketinginsights
- #musicindustry
- #digitalmarketing
- #IndustryInsights
- #musicmarketing

Weekly Tips

1. Yes, Your Single Needs A Video
2. A Major Label Brings You From 50>100. That Means You Have To Do The Ground Work.
3. The Cheat Codes Only Works If You're Already Making Noise.
4. You Need A Digital Strategy Before You Need A Publicist.
5. Association Is Key. Be Strategic About Your Partnerships.
6. Make Yourself Indispensable.
7. Your Strength Comes From Your Team.
8. Your Time Is Just As Valuable As Your Intellectual Property.
9. Make Sure You're Recording Everything!
10. Lead Time Will Make or Break The Success of Your Whole Campaign.
11. Come to The Table With Solutions, Not Problems.
12. Your Label Is Your Brand, Withdraw Wisely.
13. Who Introduces You Matters.
14. Stop Putting 1-min+ Intros On Your Music Videos
15. The Difference Between Good and Great is a Solid Plan.
16. Your Manager Isn't Your Investor.
17. Do Your Googles Before You Send The Pitch.
18. Managing an Artist is Different than Managing a Brand.
19. Set A Goal, Strategize, Then Execute.
20. Watch How You Talk to Your Service Provider.
21. Always Bring Your Laptop.
22. Your Network is Your Power.
23. Always Have a Contract. (collab with Deuvil Law)
24. "Homeboy Management" Only Works For So Long.
25. It's About the Perception. Not the Reality.
26. Make Sure You're Controlling The Narrative.
27. Your Fanbase is Your Bargaining Tool.
28. An Instagram Post Can't Be Your Sole Promotional Plan.
29. Understand Your Leverage Before You Negotiate.
30. You Don't Have To Be a Part of the Audience to Know Who They Are.
31. Ideas Come With a Price Tag.
32. Building a Strategy Around A Moving Target is Not Conducive to Success.
33. Trust Your Publicist.
34. Having a Budget is Key.
35. It Needs to be a Vibe to be Memorable.
36. Don't Get Caught in ANALYSIS PARALYSIS.
37. Marketing Isn't "One Size Fits Al

Expert Insights Series

Intentional Branding For Artists

Week 1: From Personal Style to Brand Identity

1. Artists often say, “I just post what feels right.” At what point does that stop being enough?
2. How do you help artists define core brand elements, such as voice, visuals, values?
3. What’s the difference between personal taste and brand identity—and how do you find the overlap that feels authentic to the artist?

Week 2: From Talent to Positioning

1. A lot of artists are talented but still struggle to be remembered. In your experience, what’s usually missing?
2. Beyond making good music, how does clear positioning change the kinds of opportunities an artist attracts?
3. How do you find what makes an artist distinct when their genre is crowded?

Week 3: Consistency Without Losing Creative Freedom

1. Consistency comes up a lot in branding. How do you think about consistency as something that makes it easier for people to recognize an artist?
2. What parts of an artist’s brand need to stay consistent—and what parts can evolve naturally over time?
3. How do you keep brand consistency when there are multiple collaborators (manager/label, videographer, stylist, PR, etc.)?

Week 4: Recap Reel

1. If you had to sum up intentional branding for artists in one sentence, what is it?
2. When an artist reaches out for branding help, what are the first things you want to learn or review?

The Cross-Section Between PR and Social Impact

Week 1: Turning Values Into Action

1. When an artist comes to you with a social impact idea they really care about, how do you help turn it into a real plan?
2. What are some concrete steps they can take to get started?
3. How do you help the artist decide what level of impact work makes sense for their current stage and schedule?

Week 2: From Giving Back to Building Narrative

1. How does having an ongoing initiative or nonprofit shape how people see an artist beyond their music?
2. What kinds of stories or moments do you look for when turning impact work into PR without forcing it?
3. What are some common mistakes artists make when sharing impact work publicly?

Week 3: Why Social Impact Is a Long-Term PR Asset

1. How does impact work support an artist's PR in a different way than traditional PR does?
2. Over time, how does consistent impact work influence how media or industry partners talk about an artist?
3. How do you keep impact work consistent when an artist is busy, touring, or in album mode?

Week 4: Recap Reel

1. What are the 3 things an artist needs to get right if they want impact work to support their brand and PR long-term?
2. What does success look like when impact work and PR are working well together over time?

Direct-to-Fan Growth for Artists

Week 1: What Direct-to-Fan Really Means (and Why It's Rising)

1. When you say “direct-to-fan,” what do you mean in simple terms?
2. Why are more artists talking about direct-to-fan right now? What is changing in the industry?
3. What problems does direct-to-fan solve that social platforms do not solve?

Week 2: Building a Fan Offer People Will Pay For

1. What makes fans willing to pay? What are they really paying for?
2. What are some examples of “exclusive content” that are realistic to create on a regular schedule?
3. What are the most common mistakes artists make when launching a paid fan offer?

Week 3: Keeping It Alive (Retention, Community, and Consistency)

1. A lot of artists can launch something, but keeping it going is harder. How do you keep direct-to-fan consistent over time?
2. What role does community play in retention? How do you get fans to interact with each other, not just consume content?
3. How do you keep the exclusive space feeling special without putting everything behind a paywall?

Week 4: Recap Reel

1. If an artist is deciding whether to start, what is the gut-check question they should ask themselves first?
2. What are some things an artist needs to get right to build a direct-to-fan channel that lasts?

Experiential Marketing for Artists

Week 1: Why Experiences Matter (and How to Find the Right Fit)

1. Why are experiences so powerful for artists? What can an in-person moment do that online content cannot?
2. How do you figure out what kind of experience fits an artist best (concert, livehouse, nightclub, exhibition, listening party, pop-up)?
3. What's a good starter experience for an artist who wants to try this but doesn't want to take a big risk?

Week 2: Making It Worth It

1. Before you plan anything, how do you define what "success" looks like for an experience?
2. What are realistic ways experiences can create value for the artist?
3. How do experiences support an artist's PR? What kinds of media angles or interests can they create?

Week 3: Turning Fans Into Community

1. What makes an experience memorable for fans? What details create that "I was there" feeling?
2. How do you make fans feel seen and included during the experience?
3. What are some simple ways to design the experience so fans naturally want to share it online?

Week 4: Recap Reel

1. After the event, how do you keep the momentum going so it doesn't end after one night?
2. What's the biggest mistake you wish artists would stop making when it comes to live experiences?

Linkedin Strategy

AMG LinkedIn Strategy

Content Pillar

- Mondays: Industry Tips
 - We take the weekly tips from Instagram and repurpose them as LinkedIn carousels or short-form text posts. One tip per post, with two or three sentences of context explaining why it matters.
- Wednesdays: Expert Insight
 - Theresa's interview reels get uploaded natively to LinkedIn. The visuals stay the same; the caption gets rewritten to speak to a B2B audience.
- Fridays: Client Results
 - The Highlights posts get repurposed: what was the challenge, what did AMG do, what changed. Where possible, include numbers.
 -

Key Difference Between Instagram and LinkedIn

- On Instagram, the audience is artists and peers scrolling. On LinkedIn, the audience is people actively evaluating whether to hire or partner with AMG. That changes everything about tone and format. Instagram posts can be punchy and visual-first. LinkedIn posts need to open with a clear point, support it with something specific, and end with a reason to take action.

Three-Phase Rollout

- Phase 1 (weeks 1-4): Build the foundation. Set up the company page, write the About section, and connect Theresa's personal profile. Publish five posts using existing high-performing Instagram content, rewritten for LinkedIn. The goal is to have a credible, complete page before actively promoting it.
- Phase 2 (weeks 5-12): Run the three-pillar system consistently. Post three times a week. Start following and engaging with target accounts: managers, A&Rs, independent artists with visible growth.
- Phase 3: Introduce a bi-weekly long-form post with a stronger point of view — a case study breakdown or an industry take. Evaluate which post types are driving profile visits and adjust accordingly.